Falmouth Fire-EMS Seeks Applicants for Scholarship

Falmouth grads pursuing studies in firefighting, emergency medical services, nursing, or a related field encouraged to apply

FALMOUTH, Maine—Falmouth Fire-EMS is seeking applicants for its Annual Falmouth Fire-EMS Scholarship which recognizes students in the Falmouth community who plan to continue post-secondary education in the field of firefighting, emergency medical services, nursing, or a related field. The scholarship is open to high school seniors residing in the town of Falmouth who have been accepted or expect to enroll in a college or university to study firefighting, emergency medical services, nursing, or a related field. Funding for the $1500 scholarship comes from donations made to Falmouth Fire-EMS as well as monies raised by Fire-EMS members who sort bottles at the bottle bin at Central Station.

“We need emergency service providers and recognize the value of having EMS providers who live in our community,” said Falmouth Fire Chief, Howard Rice. “The scholarship is one way to support and encourage our students who wish to pursue careers in emergency services and related medical fields.”
