Request for Proposal

The intent of this Request for Proposal (RFP) is to secure a document that outlines the current and future staffing needs of the Falmouth Fire-EMS.

1. Purpose: The Town of Falmouth, Maine (Town) is requesting proposals for professional services to perform a study of current and future Falmouth Fire-EMS Department (Department) staffing needs. This request invites consultants to submit specific information regarding the firm’s ability to review current staffing levels and deficiencies and future fire department staffing requirements.

2. Project Description: The selected consultant will complete a study of current and anticipated future Department staffing levels. The goal will be to determine the adequacy of the current staffing and future needs for full-time, per-diem members (part-time), and paid-on-call. This study will assist the Department in making budget preparations and plans for the delivery of future services. Consultants should include the required staffing for the Town’s population estimated in the next five, ten, 15, and 20 years.

3. Community Description: Falmouth, Maine encompasses 30 square miles and has a population of 11,424 with a mix of commercial, suburban, and rural districts. Falmouth is also traversed by three limited access highways seeing 22,000 vehicles on average each day. In the past 50 years, Falmouth has grown from a quiet, small town of just over 4,000 people to a bustling suburb of over 11,000. It is part of the Greater Portland area, which has some 350,000 inhabitants. Falmouth borders the City of Portland, which is the finance, commerce and cultural capital of northern New England as well as Maine’s largest city. In the mid-1950s, the primary land use in Falmouth was agriculture, with the vast majority of the town’s populace living in the eastern portion of the community. The transformation of Falmouth started with the construction of the interstate system (I-295 and the Maine Turnpike), which divided the community with major physical barriers and provided ready access for future commuters to the Portland job market. The highways and a new sewer treatment plant stimulated commercial development on Routes 1 and 100, with more than a million square feet of non-residential space. The availability of sewer collection and treatment also made it possible for a 1970s boom in multi-family housing on the eastern part of town, including several large condominium projects. In recent decades, single-family homes have spread in the western sections of town.

4. Department Description: Falmouth Fire-EMS is a combination department operating out of three fire stations; with three engines, three Paramedic equipped ambulances, a tower, tanker, and five support vehicles. In 2018 the department responded to over 1,800 calls for service. Our current staffing consists of six fulltime staff, fifty call firefighters and emergency medical technicians, and twenty part-time per diem firefighter/paramedics and firefighter/EMTs. During the daytime business hours we are staffed with the Fire Chief, Assistant Chief, Captain/Paramedic, Captain/Advanced EMT, Firefighter/EMT/Operator, and an Office Administrator. In addition, the department employs two part-time per diem employees (one firefighter/paramedic and one firefighter/EMT) who staff an ambulance at Central Fire Station seven days a week, 24 hours per day. During daytime hours on weekends and holidays we staff a second pair of per diem employees who cross-staff a 2nd ambulance and an engine at Central Station. Our on-duty crews are assisted by the on-call firefighters and EMT's.
5. Scope of Project: The goal of the work to be performed is to review and analyze the current staffing, forecast future demands for service, and make recommendations regarding the level of current and future staffing. The specific tasks within the Scope of Services are:
   - Projected department call volume.
   - Forecast future demands for service.
   - Recommend changes to current staffing levels.
   - Recommendations should follow and be relevant to national standards including (NFPA).
   - The Town and Department will make all available information necessary to complete the project.
   - Recommend future staffing levels for the Department.
   - Meet on-site with Department leadership to understand current roles, operations, and known challenges.

6. Submittal of a final report, including all items in the Scope of Services, is required. A member of the project work group shall be available to attend and present the completed project to representatives of the Town and Department.

7. Submission Details: Submissions will only be considered from companies that have a proven history in governmental public safety and community risk analysis. Submissions to this RFP should include general information on the prospective firm as well as the firm's experience in conducting studies in similarly sized municipalities. All proposals submitted must include the following:
